Internally mounted CCD camera

Externally mounted CCD camera

The movie and television industry is constantly looking for better ways to bring the audience closer to the excitement and captivate viewers during action scenes. However, capturing footage that brings the viewer closer can be dangerous to the cameraman, the scenes are extremely fast, traditional movie cameras are large and heavy, and the environment of the scenes can be harsh.

Solution:

A ruggedized CCD camera is used to capture the footage. The camera can be mounted inside or outside of the vehicle (car, motorcycle, boat, helicopter, etc.), in this example a gecko mount is used. Then, the camera can transmit the images in two different ways:
